TEA TIME!

Living in a border town means we reap all the rewards: delicious food, fiery music scenes and, well, intercultural philanthropy. La Cuna, an S.D. nonprofit, hosted its annual Mother-Daughter Tea at the Estancia La Jolla Hotel & Spa and what an altruistic, all-ages pastiche it was. The org provides foster care for infants of Latino descent, which make up nearly half of the local needs. To support the cause they invited celeb host Monique Marvez of Jack FM to host, and a Stingaree DJ to handle the music, and while the parents shimmied with the salsa troupe Mighty Shock, the kids indulged in mini makeovers. So the kids were happy, and the adults raised over $60,000? We'll drink (some tea) to that! -JAMES REED
